Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Benedict in view of Bohlman et al. (3,384,333).

Benedict (6,312,202) discloses a side rack rod 20 for motor vehicle, comprising: a pair of corresponding anchors each a straight tubular pipe section 22 (joined together as one long straight tubular pipe section); a curved pipe section 24, 26, respectively disposed on an end of each of the straight tubular pipe sections; a fixed base 32 at each of the curved pipe sections; characterized in that each fixed base comprising a long groove hole 36 thereon, and the maximum and minimum distance between the two long groove holes is variable or adjustable in a fore and aft direction according to the length of the straight tubular section so as to fit a range of various sized truck beds.

Benedict lacks the straight tubular pipe sections being separated by a sleeve therebetween and configured to receive the straight tubular pipe sections.

Bohlman et al. (3,384,333) teach a side rack rod for a motor vehicle comprising: a pair of corresponding anchors 12, 22 (only one of which is shown in Figure 6) each having a straight tubular section 22; a curved pipe section 12 at the end of each of the straight tubular sections 22; a fixed base 15, 21 at each of the curved pipe sections; a sleeve 23 (Figure 6) disposed between the pair of anchors and configured to receive the straight tubular sections 22. The sleeve 23 is hollow and interconnected between the straight pipe sections 22 of the pair of corresponding anchors.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided a sleeve as taught by Bohlman et al. between the conjoined straight tubular pipe sections of Benedict in order to provide an intermediate support for the rod in a central location and also to allow the rod to be removed from the vehicle and dismantled to provide for easier storage in a smaller storage area.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 3-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
